MAYOR HEWITT'S ANGELS.

HE SWEARS TWO IN TO-DAY AND TELLS A STORY.

Commissioner Scott Said that He Received $7,200 in the Corporation Counsel's Of-fice and Will Only Get $5,000 as Aqueduct Commission er-A Couple of the New Appointees Still Out of Town.

At noon to-day Mr. Francis M. Scott, a lawyer, who has been an Assistant Corporation Counsel, and Gen. James C. Duane, retired Chief Engineer, U. S. A., appeared at the Mayor's office and were warmly greeted by His Honor, who vesterday appointed them Aqueduct Commissioners.

Their appointment papers were made out and Mayor Hewitt at once proceeded to administer the usual oath of office.

'Gen. Duane," said Mayor Hewitt to the new Commissioner. " did you seek the office or did the office seek you ?"

Gen. Duane, who is about half an inch taller than the Mayor, and who is a thin man with long gray beard and small gray eyes, replied: "I know I didn't seek the Then the Mayor asked Mr. Scott the same question. "You know best, Mr. Mayor," replied

"You know best, Mr. Mayor," replied Commissioner Scott.

"Yes," put in the Mayor, "I had to persuade you to take the position."

"The worst of it is," ejaculated Commissioner Scott, "I received $7,200 in the Corporation Counsel's office, and I will only receive $5,000 as a member of the Aqueduct Board."

Mayor Hewitt glanced at Gen. Duane and exclaimed: "There is a good deal of fight in little finen." Then he laughed and laughed.

"I will tell you all a story," he went on.

"The man asked me if I was the famous Abram S. Hewitt, of New York. I said I was that seif-same Hewitt. 'And you are away up in Tammany Hall.' he exclaimed. 'Yes,' I replied, 'I am a Tammany Hail Sachem.' 'Good gracious," said the Ohioan, 'You don't look like a bruiser.'"

Turning to The Evenine World reporter. Mayor Hewitt remarked: "I have only five more months to do my duty as Mayor. I think I have acted for the interest of the city in selecting the four new Aqueduct Commissioners."

Ex-Assemblyman Walter Howe will be sworn in later in the day. He telegraphed from Newport that he would arrive at the City Hall in the afternoon.

"John J. Tucker, another new Commissioner, is in the White Mountains. He will not be sworn into office for a day or two.

The new Aqueduct Commissioners will take possession of the offices in the Stewart building at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when they will have their first meeting. They will merely organize and will probably have another meeting to-morrow.

Inspector D'Oench Censured. Inspectors of Buildings Louis K. Osborne and Edward Dowling were to have been tried by the Fire Commissioners this morning for neglect of duty, inasmuch that having made an examination of the building, of and 85 him street, several floors of which gave way on July 25, resulting in the death of one woman and the wounding of others, they failed to report that the floors were improperly constructed.

cases that Came Up Before the Fire Com At the regular meeting of the Fire Com-nissioners this morning Engineers George W. Greer and Herman Busse, of Engine 26, were charged with failing to keep a proper supply of water in their engine while at a fire, which resulted in the scorching of the nre, which resulted in the scorching of the boiler, causing the pipes to leak and rendering it unfit for use.

The evidence proved that the coupling from the engine to the hydrant had burst and the water dashed against the glass gauge, which fractured it, and the hot steam rushing out prevented the engineers from manipulating the engine to avoid the damage.

These grounds, coupled with the good record of the men, caused the case to be dismissed.

Hendrickson's Game of Selling Gold Watche and the Borrowing of Them.

Marion Hendrickson, a young man living at 405 Lafayette avenue, is under arrest at beadquarters on a charge of grand larceny, headquarters on a charge of grand larceny, preferred by Alice Hodger, of East New York.

Miss Hodger avers that a month ago Hendrickson called at her house and sold her a gold watch on the instalment plan.

He called again a week or two later and asked her for the watch, as he wished to have a new attachment put in. There would be no cost. She gave him it, and has not yet had it returned.

Hendrickson is said by the police to have victimized numerous other people in the same manner.

Shall Physicians Have a Badge?
to the Editor of The Ecening World:
It has been suggested by The Medical World that there should be something in the dress of the physician to reveal his profession. Responses from all over America have been received and by far the greater number agree upon olive as a color. "Let the medical pro-fession adopt olive as its distinguishable color, to be worn simply as buttons on the coat, or a hat band, or as the color of the hat or cap, the coat or cape, or any part or all of the dress."

EDDIE O'REILLY IS DEAD.

The Serrowful Announcement Came to His Host of Friends This Morning.

Edward J. O'Reilly, the City Hall and local political reporter of the New York Times, died suddenly last night of heart disease at his residence, 54 Charles street.

The announcement of the death of this bright, popular and promising young jour-nalist will sadden the hearts of a large circle of acquaintances, who knew him and loved him for his manly ways, cheery disposition true friendship and steadfast devotion to his profession and to the journal he represented. He was recognized as one of the very best of political reporters and he had an army of friends among politicians of all parties and factions.

of political reporters and he had an army of friends among politicians of all parties and factions.

Mr. O'Reilly was about thirty years of age and was born in this city. He was educated in the public schools and spent two years in the College of the City of New York. His father, the late Edward J. O'Reilly, was for years the City Hall reporter of the Times, old Express and Sunday Mercury, and the son assisted him in his work while a mere boy. Before young O'Reilly was nineteen he was appointed on the staff of the Express. He was for years one of the political reporters of the Heraid, but for the last few years had been a valued member of the Times staff.

During his journalistic career he was a correspondent at Washington and Albany, and had reported the proceedings of National and State conventions. He was well informed on all public questions of the day.

Last winter he had an attack of scarlet fever and pneumonia, and his life was in the balance for over a week. Although of a frail constitution he fought a good fight and recovered. At the time of his death he was Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Press Club.

He leaves a widow, but no children.

Cincinnates Crack Pitcher Is Likely to Languish Long in Jail.

Tony Mullane, the crack pitcher of the Cincinnati " Reds," who was taken into eusody at Washington Park last evening by two leputy sheriffs, still languishes in Raymond Street Jail, whither he was sent last night for non-payment of a bill of $218 which he is said to have contracted with Vanent & Co., liquor dealers, New York.
Tony's counsel is said to have advised him not to pay the bill, owing to a flaw in the papers. Mullane's Christian name is said to be not Tony, but James. This is the flaw which his lawyer intends arguing. Things, however, look as if "Tony" or James Mullane will have to pay the bill or re-

POSTMEN REVOLT.

The New Eight-Hour Law Said to Be Evaded.

They Claim It Brings Them Longer Hours.

Bitter Disappointment Among Our Letter Carriers at the New Time-Table-The "Swings" Said to Bring the Day's Work to Ten and Twelve and Semetimes to Fourteen Hours-A Monster Petition for Postmaster Pearson's Removal in Preparation-What Mr. Pearson Says.

The present session of the United States Congress enacted a law giving the postmen eight hours as the limit of their service i distributing and collecting the public mails. To-day that law took effect, and it is claimed by many of the postmen that it is "more honored in the breach than in the observance" by the Postmaster in this city.

Two hundred and sixty new carriers were enrolled into the service and placed on duty. These new men, it is averred, have been assigned so that their work is done within the law, while the old carriers are required to work as long as four-teen hours and thirty-five minutes, even longer than under the old system, when twelve hours was the limit for the "short" day and fourteen for the long.

The men who were active in bringing about the Short-Hour law assert that they are the

The old and well-tried carriers say that they are placed on duty so that they are compelled to remain about the general office all the way from eleven to fourieen and a half hours. They also say the Postmaster discriminates in favor of the new men, who are the only ones who get the benefit of the law.

By the system of "swings" many of the postmen declare that their burden is still greater. One man who was seen by an Evenino World reporter said to day that he came on duty at 6.30 a. m. and worked four hours continuously; then he had a swing of three hours, during which time he is required to look up lost and misdirected letters and newspapers.

WHAT THE POSTMASTER SAYS. Postmaster Pearson received an Evening World reporter in his office to-day. He was asked what system would be used in governing the working hours of letter carriers now that the Eight-Hour law had come due, and replied that he could give no outline as yet, but that with the 261 new men just engaged, no man would be asked to do more than the eight hours' work.

"The appropriations," continued the Postmaster. "will not permit of a time schedule which assigus eight consecutive working hours for each man, for such a scheme would require a larger additional force of men than we could pay, and so you see that many of the carriers will have to divide their time of the carriers will have to divide their time into, say, two parts of four hours each."

"But, Mr. Pearson, suppose that carriers now whose time is divided into two sections of four hours each are obliged to put in the time between the two sections in sorting letters and doing other work here in the office, so that many men really work eleven hours a day. Will that be remedied?"

"You suppose a case that has no existence. The time which elapses between the two or three assignments which complete the eight hours required is the man's own, and he can use it as he likes."

triumph for The Evening World in favor of the people.

"I can not understand how those gates have been closed in the evening all these years. To me it is a mystery as well as an outrage on the public. It is plain that old Peter Stuyvesant intended the park for the use of the people at all times. The deed shows that he wanted to do this.

"I have no doubt the Park Commissioners will act very soon in the matter and open the gates. We will present the resolution passed by the Board of Aldermen to the Mayor very soon and then will see the Park Commissioners, and I think they will open the gates of the park on the request of the Board of Aldermen whether we secure the Mayor's approval of not.

park, for they have been deprived of it so long."

Through a misunderstanding of the hour the committee appointed at the citizens mass meeting in Stuyvesant Hall to wait upon the Park Commission did not appear till after the Board had adjourned to-day, but Commissioners Robb and Towle were still at the office of the Decartment, and M. J. Kelley and John Begg, of the committee presented the resolutions of the Stuyvesant Hall meeting, and urged that action be taken at an early moment.

Mr. Robb said: "No injustice has been done to any one, for no one has ever asked me to open the park; but since this agitation began, three or four persons owning property on the square have asked that they be heard in opposition to the plan. We will have both sides at our meeting on Wednesday next.

"As for me, I think the people should have what they ask. I think the gates should be open. That is what the parks are for."

Mr. Kelley urged that the moral aspect of the question was favorable to the petitioners, as a lighted park properly policed was a preventation of wrong-doing within its precincts, while Livingston and Rutherford places and Second avenue were now so dark at night that ladies feared to pass that way.

Commissioner Towle said: "I think I am safe in saying that the people of the Six-Commissioner Towle said: "I think I am safe in saying that the people of the Sixteenth Assembly District will have their park. Their request is a most reasonable one. The park certainly should be open till 10 o'clock at night."

Commissioner Robb said: "Thirty years ago the neighborhood of this park was the most aristocratic and exclusive in this city. Then the park was inclosed and gated at the request of those who supposed they would always own all the property in the neighborhood.

"The tenement-house is a thing of later event. The character of the neighborhood is changed and the park ought to be opened; but we cannot presume to open the gates without hearing both sides. Come next week She Might Marry After He Died. (APECIAL TO THE EVENING WOSLEL)
